THE ARTS CAMP OF NEW ENGLAND

What if you could live in a perfect world...

A world where everyone was accepted for who they are, a world that was open to the new and the different, a world with minimized structure and maximized opportunities?

Now what if that world was located amid quiet hills on the shore of a pristine lake in mid-coastal Maine? Founded in 1967 as a co-ed, non-sectarian, noncompetitive arts camp, Camp Med-O-Lark is that world. Med-O-Larkers gather each summer to create a community where everyone has the chance to discover, to grow, to create, to learn and to shine. Emphasizing the creative arts, Med-O-Lark has the most extensive offering of programs in dance, fine arts, handcrafts and theater of any camp in New England. Campers typically attend one or two four-week sessions, though Med-O-Lark does offer a special two week option as well. Ultimately, what makes Med-O-Lark truly special is its understanding of what camping should be. It's about the atmosphere. Above all, Med-O-Lark encourages self-expression and discovery. Med-O-Lark is a place where campers have the chance to try new activities and forge lasting friendships. At Med-O-Lark, no one feels "left-out". A common refrain heard from campers and staff alike is "there's just something about this place" that makes the experience powerful and exciting, something which lies beyond the vast activity offerings, humorous evening programs, and serene location. What is that "something"? As so many campers and staff say, "It's the people." It's the magic that is made when people share their true selves in a remarkable community.

We hope that you will join us at Med-O-Lark to discover the magic for yourself. Come and find out why Med-O-Lark is a truly amazing summer camp experience!

Our History

In the late 1800's, one of the oldest boys camps in America was established on Washington Lake, in Washington, Maine. This camp was named Medomak Camp. Across the lake, Wetona Girls Camp was established in the early 1920's on a parcel of land that was previously a private farm. In 1946, Medomak camp purchased Wetona Girls Camp. After combining the two, it was decided that a new name was in order. A twist of the Medomak name coupled with the lovely Meadowlark bird, seen around the lake, yielded what is now known as Camp Med-O-Lark. The camp was continuously occupied until 1965 when, after a period of slow decline, it closed.

Less than two years later, however, it re-opened. The "new" Med-O-Lark that was established in 1967 is the Med-O-Lark that exists today. Different than all other camps of that era, Med-O-Lark was created as a wonderful alternative to the traditional camps of those times. It was designed as a co-ed, non-sectarian, non-competitive camp that emphasized creative pursuits as the foundation of a campers daily experience. Med-O-Lark's goal was to embrace minority children as well as children from other countries. It was to be a special place emphasizing individual growth and community spirit. As a result of this pioneering approach to camping, Med-O-Lark became an instant success. Today, Med-O-Lark stays true to its roots, continuing its long tradition of values in a nurturing environment.

Our Philosophy

Open to the new and different. Med-O-Lark seeks to supplement the home and school in providing children a fun, safe environment for social, mental and physical development. Med-O-Lark's philosophy is that children thrive through individual choice and self-expression. Accordingly, Med-O-Lark's elective structure and wide selection of activities allow campers the freedom to explore and grow through their experiences. Med-O-Lark's accepting environment fosters a sense of inclusion, as well as a comfortable atmosphere where children can be creative. Campers feel empowered to step outside of their comfort zones and discover more of themselves, all the while gaining confidence and self-esteem.

Our Administration

Scott & Dana

Scott and Dana Weinstein, Directors/Owners at Med-O-Lark, take their responsibility as mentors and role models for campers very seriously. Parenting their two children, Ellen and Danny, has heightened their awareness that young people need a safe and nurturing environment in which to grow. In the off-season, the Weinstains carefully select staff and adult artisans, both nationally and internationally, who share their vision and values. Scott completed his degree in finance and economics at New York University's Stern School of Business while working at the New York Stock Exchange. Dana earned her BS in business administration and after graduation, entered the business world as well.

Brendan & Jessica

Brendan and Jessica Miller, Assistant Directors, are a warm and friendly couple who, along with their two boys Nathan and Dylan, are a part of the Med-O-Lark family. Brendan has earned a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration at SUNY Albany and worked at the New York Stock Exchange after graduation. Jessica has earned a Masters in Counseling from LIU CW Post and has worked in this field for six years. Upon the birth of Nathan, the Miller's decided to join the Med-O-Lark community to raise their family in a nurturing and wholesome environment. Both Brendan and Jessica were long time campers as children and strongly believe in the value of the camping experience. Both are considered by campers to be a great "Summer Mom and Dad".

Missy

Missy Vigue, Assistant Director and Registrar, spends most of her time during the summer in the busy camp office, answering phones, speaking with parents, organizing camper travel and in the off-season, administering the extensive registration database. Missy was born in Atlanta and graduated from Vanderbilt University with a Bachelor's degree in music performance. Missy completed her Master's degree in orchestral conducting at the University of New Mexico before relocating to Washington, Maine, where she now lives with her husband Duane and sons, Brody and Logan.

Laura

Laura Silvia, Assistant Director, Laura was born and raised within walking distance of camp. Growing up, she became very knowledgeable of Med-O-Lark and its many programs and procedures. She joined the Med-O-Lark administration staff in the fall of 2006 to assist in the camp office, and manage a variety of administrative roles. She brings a warm, friendly disposition to the campers and staff. Through her well established local relationships, she also brings the added dimension of enhancing Med-O-Lark's good standing with the surrounding community. She is always available to be of service to anyone needing help with any questions or concerns.

Jody

Jody Moser, Assistant Director, manages the daily programs at camp. Jody also oversees the leadership development program. Jody received his Bachelor's degree from Northwestern University where he studied philosophy and comparative religion, minoring in music. Jody received his Master's degree from Harvard University in ethical theory, and is currently a doctoral student at Northwestern working toward a joint Ph.D. in Religion and Philosophy. Prior to assuming his current responsibilities as Assistant Director, he was a long-time camper and favorite counselor at Med-O-Lark.

Camp Life

Med-O-Lark Staff

Med-O-Lark seeks individuals who are warm, caring, giving and nurturing. The average age of camp staff is nearly 23. All cabin counselors are at least 18 years of age or older. Prior to the beginning of camp, Med-O-Lark staff attend a mandatory, intensive, ten day training program. During this time, staff members receive training in camper safety and are familiarized with Med-O-Lark's policies, procedures and values. The length and scope of Med-O-Lark's training program exceeds the training guidelines established by the American Camp Association. Med-O-Lark staff comes from many states and countries. Historically, staff have come from countries such as Great Britain, Australia, Israel and more. Med-O-Lark prides itself on having a large number of artists and teachers. This mix of people with fresh ideas and unique perspectives forms a diverse community. Med-O-Lark counselors not only provide campers with support, guidance and instruction, but also with lasting friendship.

Cabins

Campers sleep on bunk beds inside cabins that are equipped with electricity, hot water showers, sinks and toilets. Clothing and personal items are stored in dressers. Significant investment in this area is continually made to ensure children are housed in clean, quality dwellings.

The Dining Hall

Med-O-Lark offers an extensive, buffet-style dining experience for all three meals. The scrumptious assortment of quality prepared foods made each day ensures that there is always "something for everyone". For vegetarians as well, there are always tasty choices. Campers can choose what they like, return as often as they want and sit anywhere in the dining hall. In addition, fruit and ice-cold water are available all day for campers on the dining hall deck. At 3:30 p.m. each day, the entire camp gathers for an afternoon snack or ice cream break. After dinner, snacks are periodically distributed during and after evening activities

The Health Center

Med-O-Lark has a fully equipped health center located in the center of camp. At all times, it is staffed by at least two medical professionals; registered nurses and/or medical doctors. In addition, the Sheepscot Medical Center, a regional health care facility, is less than a ten minute drive while Maine General Medical Center in Augusta is 25 minutes away.

A Typical Day

Med-O-Lark offers an all-elective program in which campers choose all of their own activities. Campers choose five activities/workshops (from over fifty choices) every two weeks. Therefore, campers take ten activities/workshops during each four week session. In a typical Med-O-Lark Day there are five activity periods as well as ample free-time. During free-time, the staff remain at their activity posts, thus enabling interested campers to sample any other activity or workshop that is not a part of their chosen, daily schedule. Once a week, campers enjoy both a Trip Day and a Lazy Day. On Trip Day, campers go to the beach, explore the coastline on an ocean cruise or visit state parks. On Lazy Day, campers can sleep an extra hour, enjoy an extended day of free choice activities or simply take-in all that Med-O-Lark's waterfront has to offer. No activities at Med-O-Lark are mandatory except when so requested by a parent. Parents often request that their children receive swim lessons or music lessons and individual instruction in other specific areas.

Med-O-Lark is home to one of the largest and most all-encompassing Fine Arts programs of any camp. Camp life revolves around the Art Barn, located in the center of camp, and the many studios specifically designed and built for each art program surrounding it. All art activities are led by professional artisans or college students majoring in the arts. As a result, campers receive high quality instruction.

Metal Jewelry

Enabling students to learn the techniques necessary to create metal jewelry, this studio focuses on pieces such as necklaces, belt buckles, medallions, rings, earrings and chains. The work is done in copper and silver and students are encouraged to incorporate other materials into their projects, such as stone settings and enameled pendants.

Ceramics

In the extremely popular and well equipped ceramics studio, what can be created is limited by only a camper's imagination. Campers can hand build pieces, create sculptures and busts, make tiles, pour molds, or learn to throw a pot on a wheel. The talented staff and adult artisans are always able to guide campers as they learn about clay, glazing, firing and the production of finished pieces.

Beads

In this expansive studio, campers create beautiful jewelry and accessories. The studio is equipped with a wide array of materials, and the staff teach many new and innovative techniques for working with beads. Campers create necklaces of every shape, coin purses, chandelier earrings, beaded broaches, Fimo beads, dream catchers, woven bead bracelets and much more.

Cloisonné Enameling

An ancient Enameling technique where wires are bent to form a design and the resulting cells are wet-inlaid with enamel. In this studio, campers learn how to create Cloisonne on fine silver, with fine silver wires. Creations are kiln fired at 1500 degrees Fahrenheit between 7-10 times for high quality results.

Champlevé

An ancient Enameling technique where enamel is wet-inlaid into depressions with metal showing between enamel sections. In this studio, campers make depressions by etching from a hand drawing using embossing powder as a resist. Work is fired at 1450 degrees Fahrenheit 5 or 6 times for wonderful creations.

Copper Enameling

Enameling on a pure copper surface using techniques such as Sifting, Stenciling, Sgraffito, Scrolling, Crackle Enamel, Pull through, Draw and Sift, Decals and Raku. Campers add Lumps, Threads, Milleflori, Flower Wafers, Gold and Silver foils

Basketry

The ancient art of basketry is alive and well in this popular studio as campers learn the weaving techniques necessary to create beautiful custom baskets. The baskets are made from all natural materials and can be woven with varying patterns while incorporating colorful fibers.

Candles

Housing one of Med-O-Lark's most unique programs, the Wax House has been expanded in the last few years to include soap making, incense, essential oils and wax sculpting. Candle making, however, remains the staple of the Wax House. Despite the obvious beauty of the finished candles, the process of creating them is fairly easy for most campers. As a result, the Wax House is always teeming with activity. Candle types that campers create include ribbon candles, sand candles and sculpted candles. A resident wax artist helps campers manage the "dipping" process, which involves continuously coating a candle's wick with layers of colorful wax.

Soap Making

Handmade soaps are fun to make and each one is a unique piece of art. Campers mix their color palette and design their own soap using techniques like layering and curling. Campers use the "Melt and Pour" method and add wonderful things like botanicals, essential oils and fragrances. Rose petals, lavender, poppy seeds and coffee not only look wonderful, but they help make skin healthy. Campers also make lip balm from beeswax. Soapmaking excites all the senses in its practice but most of all it feels great to make something beautiful that you can use. Great for all ages, campers learn to wrap and package soaps for gifts and for personal use.

Flameworking/Hot Glass

In this modern, fully equipped studio, an experienced glass worker instructs campers in the art of glass sculpting. Campers use torches to melt colored glass rods. Once melted, campers shape and form the liquefied glass into small sculptures, utensils and decorative marbles. Med-O-Lark's trained staff works closely with the campers to ensure complete safety.

Stained Glass

Campers choose from an extensive variety of colored and textured glass to make stunning works that reflect light, like only glass can. By using patterns or creating their own designs, campers have the opportunity to create multiple pieces, incorporating their own ideas into their work. Camper projects include picture frames, candle holders, landscape wall hangings and sun catchers.

Stone Carving

Using rough-hewn blocks of soapstone in this studio, campers shape and carve beautiful creations that can last forever. Campers create small sculptures, pendants, vases, candlestick holders, clock inlays, sundials and plenty more!

Woodburning

A unique variation of Woodcarving, campers use pencil-like precision instruments to literally burn sketch lines, incisions and final strokes into different species of wood to create everlasting works of art. The tools for this activity are electric implements that provide just enough heat to be able to burn detailed pictures and drawings into a variation of wooden items..

Woodcarving

A time-tested camp favorite, campers use exact-o knives to carve and decorate wood of all species, shapes and sizes. Oils, pastels and water based paint for coloring and shading are available to enhance the creations. Many campers even design frames to complete their work. Our Native American Art studio has quality instruction provided for proper teaching methods as well as ample supervision.

Leatherworking

A time-honored handcraft synonymous with camp, campers learn to cut, shape, stitch, adorn, stain and enjoy their creations in leather. Moccasins, pouches, boots, handbags, belts, are just some of the many finished products that are manufactured in this studio. Supple elk-hide is most commonly used as the raw material for these projects. It is durable, handsome and easy to work with. It absorbs oil based paint thoroughly, for easy and precise decoration and it is soft enough to be stitched for practical uses.

Duct Tape

Oh the wonderful things made out of tape! Who knew the Handy-Man's secret fix-all is such a fabulous medium to create with? Bursting with an array of colors, campers manufacture items as diverse as quilts, dresses, flip-flops, wallets, masks, hats, show props and a million other items! Extremely fun and popular, Duct Tape Art has been offered at Med-O-Lark since it's founding in 1967.

Waterfront Activities

From almost anywhere on the Med-O-Lark campus there is a view of Med-O-Lark's beautiful, crystal clear, three mile lake. The lake is the heart of the camp's extensive waterfront program. Med-O-Lark campers enjoy a pristine and quiet lake. There is little development on the lake's banks, and there is no commercial activity permitted on it. As a result, Med-O-Lark has the good fortune of having nearly the entire lake to itself for its activities. During the summer, the lake reaches a refreshing 77 degrees Fahrenheit. Safety is the top priority on Med-O-Lark's lake. Certified lifeguards are on duty at all times while campers are participating in waterfront activities. In addition, Med-O-Lark employs a "buddy system" whereby campers must always swim in pairs. While at the waterfront, campers are subject to constant supervision by lifeguards and instructors who have qualifications in Water Safety Instruction and CPR/ First Aid. A diving board dock and slide dock frame the swimming area. Swimming lessons are available for beginner swimmers. Med-O-Lark's waterfront program is outfitted with a full line of top-quality equipment to ensure fun, safe and educational camper experiences.

Four Mastercraft speedboats are the workhorses behind the excellent waterskiing, wakeboarding and knee-boarding program. With specialized equipment and individualized instruction designed for first-time to advanced skiers, Med-O-Lark provides opportunities for beginners to learn and for more advanced riders to perfect their techniques and learn new tricks. Med-O-Lark offers sailing for the beginner with Sunfish and Hunters. Crew rowing is offered in a five-person shell. A large number of kayaks and canoes are always in use at camp. Med-O-Lark's swimming area is equipped with a 14.5 ft. "iceberg", a combination climbing wall and slide, as well as a large water trampoline and diving board that provide fun and excitement for all.
