Introductory Statement:

The Canadian Contemporary School of Art (CCSA) offers After School classes for kids, as well as a program for preschoolers during the day.

The CCSA takes an innovative approach to art instruction and provides a warm and welcoming environment for kids to learn in. By nurturing the artist in every child, classes at CCSA help to plant the seeds of lifelong creativity.

We believe in creativity as an educational tool, one that builds a child's confidence and the development of their problem-solving skills.

Art-led interactions teach children to be imaginative and trust their intuition – there is no wrong way to make an artwork. This type of experiential learning creates opportunities for self-expression and calculated risk-taking – along with the enjoyment of seeing one's creative efforts lead to tangible results.

Our courses are for children from age 2 to 17, with classes specially designed for each age group.
